

Lotus Diagram

The Lotus Diagram is a brainstorming and organizational tool that is used to define key concepts or parts of a whole. It is based on the concept that the center of the diagram is the main idea or focus, and the eight surrounding boxes are representative of the petals of the lotus flower. Each of the eight ideas would be related to the central concept. Students can use this tool to brainstorm around a particular topic or break down a bigger idea.

