Advertisement Request

Each year, the Greenwood High School yearbook staff must sell ads to businesses in and around the community to help pay for expenses associated with making the yearbook. Without revenue from advertising sales, the production of the yearbook would not be possible. The students taking yearbook are learning photography, journalism, sales, advertising, and public relations. They also learn self-discipline and teamwork along the way. With your support, the yearbook staff at Greenwood High not only learn invaluable skills but also is able to offer the entire student body, a lasting memory at an affordable price.
